Sixteen finish first aid course

BY KATHLYN AND BASIL BENGTER

Sixteen survivors of the industrial course six weeks ago finished their 50 hours of instruction and many additional hours of practical and knowledge Sunday, Oct. 19.

Fourteen of the whole of the following day being examined by Workers' Compensation Board examiner, John Dean, Dunoon, and Dr. C. J. Tenenay. The subject matter of the course was tested extremely thoroughly by a multiple choice test of 150 questions which took two to three hours to complete.

During the four-hour practical examination, candidates were confronted with photographs of actual injuries and then had to apply the appropriate treatment to a fellow student.

The class was tested individually and in pairs on CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation), a facet of the course which is of increasing importance to saving lives, particularly of heart patients. It was suggested by the examiner that more islanders would find it beneficial to learn CPR. Those interested should contact ambulance co-ordination and learn CPR at 2629.

All students agreed that whether they passed this exhaustive test or not, they had learned a great deal about first aid techniques and medical emergencies at the first aid level and so would be better able to carry out their responsibilities as ambulance attendants.

To celebrate the conclusion of the course the class, accompanied by instructor Beane Lane of Pender Island, enjoyed a seafood dinner and an evening of good fellowship. Mrs. Lane complimented her students on the efforts and on the valuable camaraderie which had developed as they learned, worked and laughed together.

She felt it important that the community should know how much time and energy had been spent by the students in order that they could more competently serve their fellows in medical emergencies.

The class showed its appreciation of the competence and sense of humour of their instructor by presenting her with a cassette by Galianon potters, the Partingtons, consisting of handsome earthenware mugs for her with a casserole by Galiano

When George and Edna Rose marked their golden wedding anniversary last week it was an anniversary with a difference. Mother was there.

The bride's mother, Mrs. M.A. Burke, came from Nanaimo to take part in the celebrations. She was at the original wedding in Vancouver, October 23, 1930 and she came to the island to mark the passage of 50 years.

The couple have lived on Salt Spring since September, 1964, when they retired from Vancouver. And they haven't come very far from home, at that. George Rose was born in Vancouver and his bride came from Victoria. Marrying in Vancouver, they lived in Vancouver.

George Rose was superintendent of a furniture factory in Vancouver when he retired. Today, 16 years later, he is still active and cuts and sells wood.

Their two children, Sharon Sparling, Salt Spring Island and George Rose, Jr., of Port Alberni were here for the celebration with their seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The family gathering was in the Salt Spring Island Rod and Gun Club on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 26.
ABORTION:

An individual, personal issue

One woman's viewpoint

BY ALICE RICHARDS

Inform youngsters about sex until they are already faced with a pregnancy or a marriage.

The Answer

The answer to the preventative medicine of abortion. Agree a resolution by the Social Planning and Review Council of B.C. that says prevention of pregnancy requires more than just birth control information. Education about birth would be sensible. It must become the job of parents and schools.

It seems as if schools are dealing with little people who will all go on to university or enter the job force and never form the families of tomorrow. The social service department and volunteer organizations are left to offer the programs that should be mandatory for students—programs such as parenting, and family courses, child psychology. But these programs are sadly under-funded by the government which makes it necessary for them to rely on volunteer help.

There are good programs which have been developed by organizations such as the B.C. Council for the Family that go far beyond what a person can learn from textbooks. Together, parents and schools have the opportunity to reverse the abortion figures, reverse single-parent-family figures, reverse teenage pregnancy figures. Society's problems, ignored by parents, feared by teachers, end up at the social worker's door, or in the operating room of a hospital, when it's far too late.

I've finally reached the end of the long, long road to Canadian citizenship. No less than five Salt Spring Islanders became citizens at a ceremony held in Victoria a few weeks ago.

There were 67 new citizens altogether, with people relinquishing their citizenships from almost two dozen countries. Most of them were Americans. The citizenship court adopted 1,300 new Canadians last year in the Victoria court alone.

It took me 25 years and now I can't wait for the next provincial election to exercise my new-found freedom to vote.

Young for failure

Campbell was wrong. Legal opinion received by the Capital Regional Board last week made it clear that the chairman, Jim Campbell, was probably in error when he took action recently over a vote.

Earlier in the year the board voted on the exclusion of the islands from the transit service area. The islands wanted out of the bus business which doesn’t serve them. The vote was taken and the chairman ruled that the motion was defeated.

Salt Spring Island Director chal­ lenged the vote, a weighted vote, and it proved that the motion had, in fact, carried.

PIONEER IN RECYCLING FIELD: most liquor bottles in region

This picture dates back to 1965

Next time you hear that over-pop­ulation in the Third World is to blame for present shortages, re­member that we consume 40 times as much as they do! And much of our consumption is wastage.

It’s difficult for us to change our lifestyle, but one way to alleviate problems is to shut out our wasteful society to is recycle.

I now regard it as offensive, morally and economically, to throw away anything which can be used again, or to buy new anything which is available second-hand. The economics have been explain­ed to me — how massive unem­ployment will result, but frankly, I don’t believe it.

It will take a long time for our miniscule effort to be felt by the industrial establishment. They are too busy pushing people out of work by automation to worry about the stuff we are reusing or recycling.

Salt Spring Island has been a pioneer in this field, and we are justly proud of our record of (a) the formation of the Capital Region and (b) the best-organized recycling shed in the area.

To keep pace with our expanding population, we have enlarged our facilities. When construction in the KeR parking lot forced us to move, we were able to relocate between the Liquor Store and KREISSL Leonard (Bud) Upholsterer in town.

We planned an extension to the barrels which hold the smashed glass. Imagine saving over $100 worth of materials, placed on site on Friday evening, was stolen by Saturday morning. The day of the building work party! That’s not recycling, that’s lowdown theft! We all work hard at recycling.

Our volunteers work every Satur­day; my teenage son works after school on a more or less daily basis: our co-ordinators work for a month hammering and sawing and sanding and water-proof and to buy the recycled.

Here I must mention the tremen­dous co-operation we have received from other firms. There have been an inordinate number of volunteers, hardiest of all, we get working from the Capital Region to help us. We are very thankful.

We do not want to see those who contribute decomposed chickens, mixed trash or notorious sub­stances wrapped in plastic. This is abuse of the system, those who operate it do not remove adequacy of recycling. These are good ethical people and they deserve support from the rest of the community.

On August 14 The Province Index noted: “Canadian firm char­ged with contravening U.N. embar­r

More Food for Thought
BY MARY C. WILLIAMSON

But it does so only in respect of matters dealt with under the letters patent granted to the board. And the transit function is not listed in the letters patent. So the chairman was not entitled to invoke Section 240, directors learned.

The procedure could be quashed by a court should the decision be challenged.

The question is academic, ex­plained Chairman Campbell last week, inasmuch as bylaw No. 788 excludes the islands from paying the transit levy.

The legal opinion recommends that the board seek amendment to its letters patent to have the transit function NOT VISUALIZED.

When the municipal act was written, explained the lawyer, it was not anticipated that municipa­lities would be responsible for functions not included in the municipal act. Hence, the exclu­sion of urban transit.

Valcourt was concerned that the board had asked, at the beginning of summer, for a further advice. Was the bylaw excluding all the islands the same bylaw which had been debated since January? The executive director failed to ask this question of the regional solicitor, the province at the time.

If it was the same bylaw, then the chairman was doubly in error over his exercise of the veto, she contended, and the chairman’s action was invalid.

The solicitor does not say the action was invalid, countered Camp­bell.

“He says the action must stand until such time as it might come to court.”

The chairman added that he accepts the matter as academic because the Outer Islands are not paying the levy.

“I did not do it with the yoyo matter and I propose to leave it where it is,” he concluded.
From Pearson College

Students visit Pender School

BY ELEANOR HARRISON

Eight students from the Lester B. Pearson College of the Pacific spent a weekend on Pender Island recently.

The students arrive one day at the school, becoming acquainted with island students and telling the students about themselves, their home countries and Pearson College where they now live and study.

"Of all them spoke excellent English."

The Pearson College program runs for two years. Some of the students had just arrived four weeks earlier to begin their studies while some were entering their second year. Their ages varied from 17 and 19 years.

The college covers grade 12 and first-year university equivalent, is co-educational and is a member of the United World College system of international educational institutions. At Pearson College there are 200 students.

The college is named in honour of Canada's Nobel Peace Prize winner, Lester B. Pearson, and is located 18 miles from Victoria. Students are chosen by selection committees across Canada and around the world.

The college brings together students and teachers to study and work together, in the belief that by human contact students will see through the veils of "cultural, historical and political prejudice and that peace can be brought about by understanding and knowledge.

Total cost per student is $7,500 per year and includes all tuition, room, meals, medical costs and insurance, as cost to the student except for personal expenses.

Parking problems at school

Two Ganges residents have expressed alarm over vehicle congestion in the parking lot at Gulf Island Secondary School.

In a letter to the Gulf Islands School District, Phil Knowles and Ursula Sinclair, who both live adjacent to the parking lot, complained about the large number of cars and the blocking of one of their driveways.

On the evening of October 9, the district was told, there were 24 vehicles in the parking area while continuing education classes were in progress. The letter concluded by saying that the school board consider hiring a parking attendant.

Trustees supported a motion by Strick Aust, who suggested that the district could provide signs for the area, as the parking permits that their vehicles could be towed away if they are parked in front of the driveways. The two property owners, however, would have to take the responsibility for towing away any vehicles.

Trustee Mary Williamson described it as "chintzy" a suggestion that the residents erect the signs. If the cars are there because of us, we should pay for the signs," she stated.

Aunt felt that the board should take a "good neighbour" approach.

"It's the least we could do for them."

Trustee candidate is well known figure on two islands

Woman who has been known as teacher and counsellor in the islands school for a dozen years is among the candidates for a seat on the Gulf Islands School Board. Part time she is a real estate saleswoman. She left the teaching profession last year and became a retailer in Ganges.

Graduate of the University of British Columbia, she took her arts degree in psychology and initially engaged in rehabilitation programs for women and young offenders in correctional institutions. She undertook various post-graduate studies in educational psychology and learning theory and developed a keen interest in education and student guidance. Her concerns took her into programs for gifted children, children with learning difficulties, special reading programs and family group programs. Miss James also took two years studying accountancy.

TO THE ISLANDS

She came to the islands after teaching and counseling in North Vancouver and Vancouver. For four years she served as counselor at Gulf Islands Secondary School. She then moved to Mayne Island, where she was principal for five years.

She has adopted no position on issues facing the school board, and prefers to work towards a set of objectives.

She told Driftwood that she is looking for closer communications between the four constituent factions in education, the teacher, the parent, the trustee and the student.

She cited her targets when she made known her plans to seek election on Monday.

At Pender

BY ELEANOR HARRISON

Miss Joan Purchase and Mrs. Dunphie Stevens were the guests of honour at an afternoon party at Pender Island on October 12, when about 100 gathered to wish them well at their new homes.

Mrs. Stevens will be living in Sidney and Miss Purchase plans to move to Salt Spring Island.

The party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Tallman and arrangements for it were made by Mrs. Maggie Mennie and Mrs. Margaret Tallman, assisted by neighbours and friends.

Miss Purchase came to the island soon after the war and was a leader in island activities for many years. She served on the Capital Regional Board, was active in the Island’s Chamber of Commerce, was on the board of Lady Minto Hospital, was for many years treasurer of St. Peter’s Church and served on many of the old Port Washington Hall Society committees.

Mrs. Stevens has lived on Pender Island for the past 18 years. She is an excellent artist and is a long-time member of the Pender Island Art Club.

The ladies were also entertained by the Art Club of Pender at a tea in the Art Room. They were each presented with a gift from their friends in the club.

FIVE YEARS AGO

There are nine candidates for five seats in the coming school board elections. At Mayne Island Senior High School, there is a challenge of Edward Thomas Easton. Jean Lorraine Campbell entered the hustings as she seeks to wrest from Tom Davidson the Saturna seat. Three incumbents at Salt Spring are running again. They are chairman Charles Baltzer, Mrs. J.W. Guthrie and Walter R. Dier. Two different candidates have appeared to challenge their seats. Mrs. J.R. Sturb and Mrs. Isabel Goodman have been nominated.

Henry Elder is chairman of the Ganges Planning Committee. Inaugural meeting of the new committee saw Elder named to the chair. It also brought about the firm establishment of boundaries for the Ganges area. As the original plan of island planning, the commercial centre will be that area within a mile radius of Centennial Park.

One of Salt Spring Island’s most active legionnaires has left to make his home in Victoria. Mr. and Mrs. J.H.M. Lamb have sold their home at St. Mary Lake and have taken up residence in a Victoria apartment building. They have lived in the island for 27 years.

TEN YEARS AGO

Submarine cable at Saturna was burned when a fire was lighted beneath it on October 8. Cable was laid by BC Hydro as part of its service to Saturna, Tzouhalem, Shawnigan and Salt Spring.

At the Gulf Island Branch of the BC Historical Society meeting at Saturna last Thursday Mrs. Annie DeRouelle, Mrs. Clara James and Ese Bow from Mayne Island, were present, the attendance prize with 11 present.

Square dance Hallowe’en Masque was held last Saturday in the downstairs hall of the United Church for a dinner meeting.

President Hart Bradley reviewed the Lions’ first birthday on Monday. The Salt Spring Island Lions Club celebrated its first birthday on Friday. A cocktail party was held first at the Legion Hall after which members and their guests adjourned to the downstairs hall of the United Church for a dinner meeting.

Constable Harry Bonner, R.C.M.P., is again making his rounds. “However, we intend to be killjoys,” said Constable Bonner. “We will not tolerate damage to property such as faxes and road signs, nor will we allow barriers to be placed on the highways, as these constitute a traffic hazard.”

Hart accepted with the proviso that Mr. Hoffman keep Hilda at her present home.

Proclamation certain

Touch of New Zealand added to business life

A new accent has been added to the business life of Salt Spring Island. The accent hails from New Zealand and David B. McNeill is the accountant bringing the southern hemisphere to the Ganges office of Wilson, Hayes, Lloyd and Debeck.

The advent of McNeill is not the only change. The Duncan-based accountants have taken over the long-established Marr Accounting in Ganges. It hasn’t been a big change. Just that something has been added. The New Zealand accountant is one addition and once a week John Wilson comes to Ganges to familiarize himself with the affairs of a smaller island.

Wilson has been in the B.C. business for nearly 20 years. He graduated from UBC in his native Vancouver, with a commerce degree and then became a chartered accountant. From Vancouver to Vancouver Island was a short hop and he has not looked back.

McNeill hails from the largest city in New Zealand and came for British Columbia several years ago on holiday. He liked it well and he had already enjoyed a considerable experience of world travel, so he decided to stay here.

The Kiwi accountant was a chartered accountant in New Zealand and travelled around the world, finding employment in various cities to enable him to look closely at the places which had been only names.

He has lived in South Africa and England and he has visited many other countries.

It is David McNeill who comes to the Ganges office day by day. But the change is minimal. Spencer and Isabel Marr and their staff are still holding the fort.

Complete facility is more cost efficient

From the Salt Spring Island Recreation Commission

Why a recreation centre?

The Recreation Commission unanimously voted to present a total use building to referendum rather than build one facility such as a swimming pool.

The question, "Why not just a pool?" has been raised often and deserves an answer.

The answer lies in the experience of other communities in B.C., where a one-shot facility usually proved so popular that some additions were made at higher costs and with improper planning. Thus, it is cost-efficient to offer a total facility, meeting the needs of passive and active recreation; physical and cultural; young and old.

And although the breakdown of costs shows the pool as $592,000 without the other parts, this cost would increase because of the need for corridors, admission control, change rooms, bathrooms, storage, maintenance area and office space. Also, without increasing staff substantially, other activities such as racquet ball, squash and handball can provide needed revenue to help control the deficit the pool will accrue.

The commission feels a centre approach is the most effective way in which recreation can be offered to all age groups on the island.

The second consideration in the commission's thinking was the answer to the PERC study of questions, "How often do you travel off-island?" and "For what do you travel most?"

One third of the respondents went off island five to ten times a year, one third went off one to five times a year. One third went swimming and one third went off for performing arts and indoor sports combined.

We believe our responsibility is to serve all the recreation-minded community, not only to the swimmers. We believe in offering varied leisure activities for all ages to take place on the island for the island population. We anticipate that the quality of life will be improved by the building of the recreation centre as the populace will be healthily engaged in a multitude of planned programs as well as having the opportunity to select activities at opportune times.

This proposed recreation facility will be for now and the future.

Students question cost of sports permits

All commercial areas on Salt Spring will require a development permit when construction work is undertaken.

The proposal to bring all commercial lots under the same umbrella as the Ganges core area was opposed by Director Yvette Valcourt when it was examined in Ganges on Tuesday evening last week. Allan Hardie also expressed opposition.

A number expressed interest in the plan and one or two speakers supported the proposal.

Regional Director Yvette Valcourt charged that there was some discrimination in Ganges by granting privileges to one over another.

She then told the hearing that the development permit area in Ganges core encompasses the expansion of the commercial area. In other commercial zones no expansion is permitted. This, she charged is discrimination.

The question of local students paying for their transportation to go off-island and compete against other schools in sports activities was raised at last week’s school board meeting in Ganges.

Two Ganges Island students, Debbie Hogg and Loretta Dods, asked why students should be required to pay ferry fares.

The two were told that there is money budgeted by the board for such transportation costs.

Secretary-treasurer Wilf Peck said that there was no competition for local teams if they didn’t go off-island to play.

Trustee Strick Aoust suggested that the board should take a close look at athletic programs in the schools, and their expenses.

He said and many students are becoming actively involved in team activities. There is some concern about the lack of uniforms, he noted.

Students expressed interest in the union to develop their school with the principal.

Loretta Dods pointed out that there were no competition for local

Wide-open Sundays proposed in coming shopping vote

Sunday and holiday shopping will be wide open if voters support the Holiday Shopping Bylaw on November 15.

The provincial legislation, the Holiday Shopping Regulation Act, passes responsibility for firm decisions on to the municipality. In the case of the islands this municipality is the Capital Regional Board.

The Capital Regional Board last week decided not to close islands stores on Sundays. Had no bylaw been presented, Sunday and holiday shopping would be limited to corner stores.

If voters approve the bylaw, all stores may operate in future, on a seven-day shopping week. If voters refuse the bylaw, then all larger stores will be closed Sundays and holidays.

It will be one of three referendum votes on Salt Spring and Pender Islands. All islands will vote on it.

New rate leaves area out

Bylaw that excludes the islands from paying a transit levy also sets out the price of buses. Cost is added to the electricity bill each month. The bylaw was passed last week in Victoria.

Capital Regional Board established the private residential rate of $1 per month. Every home in the district liable for the levy will contribute $12 a year towards the cost of buses.

The commercial levy has been raised. It is now 5.5% of the hydro bill. Board was told that the highest contribution would come from a concrete-gravel company at the rate of $825 per month.

Capital region is required to meet the deficit of Greater Victoria bus service amounting to $2,267,364.

Charter president honoured

Hart Bradley, charter president of Salt Spring Island Lions Club, was presented with his 20-year pin on Thursday evening in the Harbour House Hotel.

Charter club member Bill Trelford made the presentation.

Bradley was also the first zone chairman to be named from the Salt Spring Island service club, recalled Trelford.

At the time of the charter of the club Bradley was owner of the bakery at Ganges and Trelford operated the Island Garage.

The first club president accepted the pin and explained he was leaving for the United States for the winter. He expects to be back in Ganges next spring.

No boats on lakes on island?

Islands Trust is always asking the government to protect water supplies, said Gordon Wallace at Salt Spring Island public hearings last week.

"We would be very remiss if we didn't take the steps open to us to do the same." he told his colleagues.

Restriction of boats on island lakes was under discussion.

Salt Spring Island Trust Committee is seeking authority to restrict the use of power boats on lakes from which domestic water is drawn.

It was noted that an earlier move in the same direction was unsuccessful because the enabling regulations under the Canada Shipping Act were not introduced until 1972.

Ends 18-month fight

Bylaw takes islands out of transit service area

Islands are out of the bus business.

"The Electoral Areas of Salt Spring Island and the Gulf Islands are exempt from this bylaw."

Section 2 of the Public transit Hydro Power Surcharge Bylaw, of the Capital Regional District, formally excludes the islands from the liability of paying for buses they cannot enjoy.

Section 4 of the same bylaw provides that the provisions of this bylaw are retroactive to April 1, 1980.

The bylaw was adopted at the board meeting in Victoria last week, marking the end of an 18-month fight to have the islands free of the cost of buses.

Transit Chairman Norma Sealey opposed the release of the islands, right to the end.

When the bylaw was introduced on Wednesday afternoon last week she told the board that she had protested the inclusion of the islands clause in the rates bylaw on the grounds that she could not, philosophically, support it.

"We have been dealing with it in yo-yo fashion," she complained, "depending on who happens to be sitting around the table at any one time."

Chairman Jim Campbell, who has fought exclusion of the islands bitterly, told her that the bylaw could be altered or refused, but that the question had been settled at the board meeting when the majority accepted the Valcourt motion to exclude the islands from liability for transit while retaining them in the transit service area.

Harold Parrott was also reluctant to see it debated yet again.

Sealey moved an amendment to make two bylaws of the issue. Section 1 of the bylaw sets out the rates to be charged for transit. Section 2 refers only to the islands.

Her amendment was unsuccessful.

The bylaw was passed, with the committee chairman registering a negative vote.
