Protest Threat To Dump

— ON SALT SPRING

Three Salt Spring Island community organizations are keeping a close watch on garbage disposal facilities on the island.

Department of health has been surveying the disposal system operated by Wally Twa on his own property. The department has listed a number of requirements in the operation of the dump.

Salt Spring Island Planning Association, Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce and Salt Spring Island Citizens' League have all protested any threat to the operation of the garbage dump. Capital Regional Board has been alerted to the need for a disposal system serving the island. Garbage disposal system is a private business here, operated under the supervision of the health authorities.

CARE TREE TO BLAZE AGAIN

Care Tree is all set for lighting up.

Tree blazes brightly every Christmas at Pender Island and never burns.

The Care Tree is George Pearson's tribute to the generosity of islanders and others. He is assisted by Mrs. Pearson.

Each Christmas he burns a light on his tree above Navy Channel in respect of each donation made to CARE.

Last year his fund raised $2,420. The money is sent to CARE without any deduction for cost of collection or any other purpose.

The funds raised last Christmas fed 200,000 unfortunate, starving people, reports Pearson.

This year the tree will glow again and needy, starving people somewhere in the world will eat better some time in 1973 as a result of his efforts and others' contributions. Donations may be sent to George Pearson, Pender Island and a receipt will be mailed.

ROAD WORK IS PROPOSED

Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce wants to undertake a little road work on its own bat.

The Chamber will approach the department of highways to seek approval of the construction of a footpath between the Lady Minto Hospital and Pioneer Village by local workers.

The project has been mooted as a Local Initiatives Project.

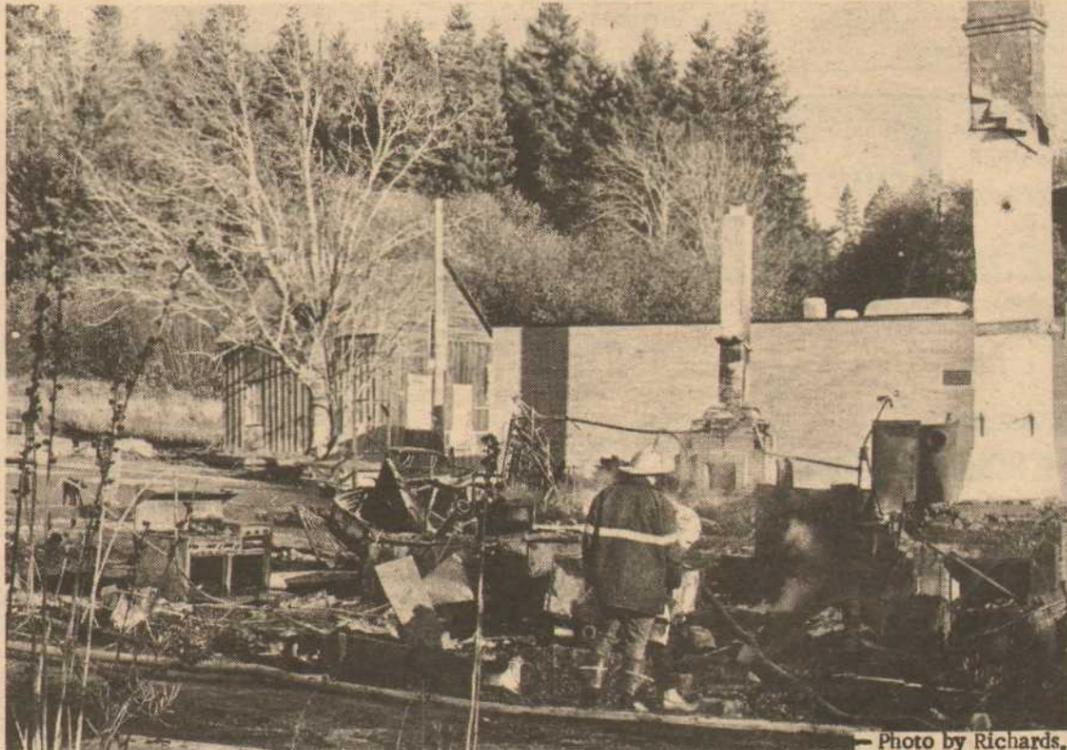

If the provincial department will authorize the plan, the Chamber will seek the support of the federal government for financing it.

Footpath is sought to enable pedestrians, and particularly older pedestrians to walk between the two points without fighting off traffic.

EARLY HOURS LIT UP BY BLAZE

FIRE DESTROYS HARBOUR HOUSE HOTEL

Three chimneys, twisted pipes and scorched metal debris were all that remained of the long-established Harbour House Hotel on Tuesday morning. Firemen are seen damping down the persistent blaze between two layers of floor. Volunteer firemen were on the job until mid-afternoon. It represented a 12-hour battle with the blaze. New wing of the hotel is seen in the background, saved from destruction by the firemen.

* * * Old Wing Flattened In blaze

— NEW WING SAVED

Harbour House Hotel at Ganges was destroyed by fire during the early morning hours on Tuesday. Biggest blaze ever fought by Salt Spring Island Volunteer Fire Department, the fire damaged woodwork and windows of the new Condor Inn structure, but firemen saved it from destruction.

Alarm was sounded shortly after 3 am and all fire trucks on the island, including truck and crew from the Fulford Hall, attended the fire.

Lawn on the far side of the hotel roadway was burned off in the heat and firemen's vehicles parked far from the blaze suffered damage from the intense heat.

By 9 am on Tuesday the firemen were still on the scene trying to quell the last tongues of flame still burning in a dummy floor near the former lounge.

The wood structure, three storeys high, was gone within 20 minutes. Firemen on the roof of the new wing were playing hoses on the roof when the fire broke through. The heat was so great that they were obliged to run for cover.

The old hotel was occupied by only one person, a member of the hotel staff, who escaped to safety.

Harbour House was the home of the Crofton family at the beginning of the century and was opened as a hostelry before the First World War. Between the wars it was the centre of social and recreational activities on Salt Spring Island.

After the Second World War the Crofton family withdrew from the operation and only Desmond Crofton remained with it. Last year it was sold again and Walter Herzog acquired it. He set plans to reconstruct it in phases and under took the first phase immediately with the erection of the New Condor Inn, to provide beer parlour, cocktail lounge and hotel rooms.

Ferry Fails To Run On Friday

Passengers between the islands and the mainland were set back on Friday when the Queen of the Islands failed to make her usual runs to Tsawwassen. The ferry ship had an engine failure.

Vancouver-bound passengers travelled through Swartz Bay as did a number of visitors from the mainland.

By Saturday the ship was back in service.

ANNUAL MEETING SET FOR DECEMBER 14

Nominating committee will prepare a list of officers and directors of the Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce in readiness for the annual meeting on December 14.

Nominating committee are Hank Schubart, Cliff Hatch and Gunter Burger.

The annual meeting has been advanced from the spring to December in order that the incoming executive can start with the beginning of the year.

OPERATES NO WORK SERVICE

Chamber of Commerce will not operate an employment service on Salt Spring Island in future.

The decision was made last Thursday when Hank Schubart reported a number of problems which had arisen over the service maintained through the

TWO PET SHEEP

Poppy got it in the neck

PITLAMPERS BLAST HOLES IN LAMB

BY CULTUS COULEE
 Poppy Henshaw got it in the neck. By a pitlamper.

Poppy is a Dorset Sheep, born at Valley Farm in December, with a face like a Mexican paper flower. People dote when she smiles at them through the rails.

She is a lamb for all seasons. At Christmas, a creche was more apt than a corral, and Poppy was pictured under the tree, looking celestial.

Indian Sweater, half Dorset, half Suffolk, and Poppy, orphans, were bottle babies. The lambs never strayed far from the house. They didn't mingle with the herd. They were very special people.

For over three weeks Ann

Henshaw has treated Poppy's wounds.

"One shot went through her neck. One straight through her nose. It goes in as a little bullet hole, and comes out a big mark, the other side, taking all the meat with it." Pity the prey of the intrepid pitlamper!

"No one could shoot a tiny, round, sheep, and think it was a deer!" deplores Ann. Only a pitlamper. The eyes are reflected and that is the direction in which the clod fires.

While Poppy was nursed back to life, Indian Sweater waited on his playmate hand and hoof, full of tender lamchop care.

Weather Kind To Ceremonies

To the veterans and their wives and some of their children, Remembrance Day was the warmest and sunniest since the Second World War. To others it was the sunniest Remembrance Day in memory. Everyone was out on parade.

At Ganges there were the members of the Royal Canadian Legion and other veterans leading the parade, members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police with the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, Guides and Brownies and other groups as well as a strong representation of island residents paying their own tribute to the millions claimed by more than four wars. Col. Peter Bingham led the parade.

There were small children without any idea of what it was all about and there were one spotted dog and one crow.

The parade moved from the Legion Hall in Ganges to the Cenotaph at Centennial Park, for the anthem and prayers by four ministers. The two minutes' silence was observed at 11 am and the ceremony closed with a hymn and the Queen. Ministers were Revs. Fred Anderson, Peter McCalman, Frank Sutherland, OMI, and Canon Bracher.

Following the ceremony, veterans gathered at the Legion Hall for lunch and reminiscences.

CITIZENS' LEAGUE IS LAUNCHED

Salt Spring Island Citizens' League met on November 1 and set plans to publicize its function and to seek more members. The league will write to the Capital Regional Board with the request that the forthcoming study of solid wastes disposal include a survey of the problem on Salt Spring Island.

The new association took a close look at an old problem. It was decided to write to the department of highways in support of other community groups already pressing for a footpath or sidewalk between the Lady Minto Hospital and Pioneer Village.

The Citizens' League is investigating the possibility of sponsoring a Local Initiatives project on Salt Spring Island to create employment for local people.

Provision of a toll-free line to the provincial government offices in Victoria, was considered. It was decided to write to the provincial government explaining that such a provision would enhance the level of communication between this community and the government departments. The league will also write to the federal government asking for the same toll-free services between the island and the nearest Canada Manpower and Unemployment Insurance Centre.

Municipal plates for trucks should be available on the island, it was felt and a letter was authorized to the department of municipal affairs asking that the sale of these plates be extended to Ganges in order to "avoid inconvenience and cost to citizens who sometimes must go off island to purchase them".

Letter to the same department will ask that results of all zoning by-laws be printed in the local press and that proceedings of all public hearings be recorded on tape.

A letter was also authorized to the Capital Regional Board, with a copy to Director M. H. Holmes, asking for clarification of Mr. Holmes' recent letter in Driftwood regarding By-law 99.

LANDMARK IS GONE AT SATURNA

Landmark has gone from Saturna. First store to be established at Saturna Wharf has been demolished by the owner. The store is shown in the picture here.

First owner was Donald McFadyen. It passed through a number of hands, Ronald Hill, Mrs. F. Mountain, C. Copeland, Fred Jackson, Tom Brown and Frank Crudden.

It remained empty for a time after Crudden left until it became a post office under the management of Art Ralph. Present owner is John Mac-who gave members much information about Sandon's past and about current efforts to preserve it from vandalism.

Donald, who has demolished the building.

Members heard that Myra Pierre and Thomas Hans were the recipients of the two $100 native Indian bursaries provided by the Branch. Mrs. C. Claxton, bursary secretary, read delightful letters of acknowledgment from the two recipients.

Members agreed to turn over to the B. C. Archives the old minute book, going back to 1955.

Donald New, president, and Mrs. Clare McAllister, secretary, were named to attend the November 5 meeting of the Council of the B. C. Historical Association in Victoria, in the home of the provincial president, Col. G. S. Andrews.

Due to complications of the ferry schedule, only members from Pender and Galiano attended the meeting.

Annual dues are being collected now.

JUVENILE SOCCER

SALT SPRING LEGION, 3; HUDSON'S ROAD RUNNERS 1.
The local boys had to play defensively early in this game, and it was against the run of play when Mike Rozzano scored to put the Legion one-up at half time.

In the second half the Road Runners quickly grabbed a goal to level the score but this seemed to spark the Legion squad into action. After hitting the woodwork twice they got the go ahead goal from Gary Hartwig and still kept attacking which resulted in Mike Rozzano adding another goal.

SALT SPRING LIONS, 3; DUNCAN BIG O TIRE, 1.
The early play in this game was end to end with chances for both teams to score but it was Tom Shelby who tallied first for the Lions.

A few minutes later the teams were level again as the Duncan squad notched an equalizer. Just before half time Stephen Anderson put the local boys in front again as he made no mistake, shooting into the goal from close range. Derek Crane and Ross McFaydden both played well for the Lions and Ross grabbed an insurance goal for the local boys mid-way through the second half.

DIVISION 9
Salt Spring Islanders, 0; Cougars, 1.

In an evenly contested game the local eight-year-olds had many chances to win this encounter, but failed to take their chances in front of goal. After a scrambled goal in the first half Salt Spring hemmed their opponents into their own half of the field for most of the second period.

They were not aggressive enough in front of goal, however, and failed to take advantage of the defensive lapses of their opponents.

HISTORIANS MAKE TWO BURSARY AWARDS AT GALIANO MEETING

First fall meeting of the Gulf Islands Branch, B. C. Historical Association, took place at Galiano School on October 22. Steven Anderson, one of two Salt Spring Island school boys who spent the summer in Sandon, West Kootenay ghost town, was the competent speaker.

to be frank

By Richards

Original Siamese twins may have been named Fee and Omenon. The Greeks who had a word for everything, except a four-letter word, decided that Fee an Omenon were, in fact, quite a phenomenon. And that's, maybe, how we got the word!

I can't wait for the first man to offer me a drink in exchange for my vote. When he does I can say with truth and fervour that all sources of alcohol should be closed during an election for fear of bribery. Until someone offers me a bribe on voting day I'll continue to figure most government officials are either a bit nuts or uptight on alcohol or just don't know what time of day it is between 8 am and 7 or 8 pm.

From North Island Gazette:
A lot of people have complained about being left off the voters lists and other problems connected with trying to cast a vote. But there are occasions when the government goes overboard in its efforts to see that every one has his rightful chance to vote for his choice, and such occasions should be recognized. Like what was done for the voters at Ivory Island Lighthouse, about 125 miles north of Port Hardy, near Bella Bella. A helicopter was engaged to fly from Port Hardy, pick up the ballot box and take it to Powell River, then return to its base. Now if you measure it on a map, the journey comes to between 500 and 600 miles. At average helicopter speed that means seven to eight hours. Cost to rent the chopper is about $150 per hour, which brings the bill to more than $1,000. How many ballots in the box, you asked? Three.

Herb Skuce went fishing up the mountain the other week. The fish were biting in the harbour, but they were small and he wanted something better. So he fished up the Cranberry and caught a deer. And like always his wife helped to bring it in.

There was never very much time and as soon as there was time I was always going to visit an old friend from the war years. For the first few months of publishing DRIFTWOOD we worked 15 hours a day, seven days a week and we always knew it would get easier. The days eased up and sometimes I didn't even go into the office on a Sunday, but as soon as there was time I was always going to see her. During the war she and her husband had entertained soldiers and airmen, from other parts of Canada and from England. Their door was always open and they were always hospitable and friendly. There was never time to enjoy a social life, but it was bound to change soon. Now it will never change in time, because Becky Lumley died last week and we never did take time out to thank her, again for her warmth and her generosity in introducing Canada to as many troops stationed here as she and Ed could find room for in their home at Steveston.

Library books are lost - and sometimes found. Mrs. T. Marcus on a holiday trip recently, lost a book borrowed from our library here. It happened to be one of a consignment of the Travelling Library based in Victoria but on the shelves here. Mrs. Marcus sent her cheque to Victoria to pay for a replacement of the book. The letter containing her cheque crossed a letter from Victoria to this library telling the secretary that the book lost by Mrs. Marcus had been returned to Victoria in good condition, by mail from Calgary Airport. Some nice people work around airports as well as in our library!

DEATH OF EMILY HUNTER SMITH

Death occurred on Thursday, Nov. 9, of Miss Emily Hunter Smith, of Tantramar, Vesuvius Bay.

Miss Smith was born in Middle Stewiacke, Nova Scotia, 1893. She came west in 1912 and went to live in Vancouver.

When a Canadian union got a jump on the big international unions a few weeks ago it stirred up a new wave of feeling against American domination of Canada - even if it might not be there. Among protests made to DRIFTWOOD last week was an expression of regret that service clubs habitually fly an American flag at Canadian club meetings, yet rarely showing a flag of another country.

It's safer to fly, Dr. Stu Strachan, from Vancouver, flew to Salt Spring Island at the week end and came in at Gordon Cudmore's airstrip. Last time he was here Stu was a patient in Lady Minto Hospital. He was one of a group of doctors whose boat capsized near Ganges about six years ago. They were all picked up, suffering from exposure and all were patients at the local hospital. He finds his Stinson, UFF, higher and drier, although he was happy with the excellence of the islands hospital.

Don't save the telephone in the event of fire, I was warned this week. If the instrument burns in the flames, it is considered an act of God and no one is held to blame. If you pull it off the wall and save it, you are guilty of an act of vandalism and face a law-suit, states my informant. It may be that the telephone company's Glyn Jones will argue that one out!

For many years she was engaged as private secretary with Empire Stevedoring Co. in Vancouver.

Upon her retirement from that company she came to live on Salt Spring Island. She bought the property previously known as Inglis Farm and subdivided it.

During her residence on the island she had taken a keen interest in the community and particularly in the affairs of the United Church.

Miss Smith leaves a nephew, Dr. D. M. Smith, Duncan and other relatives, and her friends at Vesuvius Bay. She was predeceased by her three brothers.

Funeral was on Monday, Nov 13, at Ganges United Church, with Rev. Fred Anderson officiating. Cremation followed. Goodman's Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

SILVER MAYNES TO MEET ON MONDAYS

The first regular meeting of the "Silver Maynes" Senior citizens association, Branch 84, Mayne Island, was held in the Mayne Inn on Monday afternoon Nov. 6.

A capacity number turned out to select our club name and discuss future plans. Refreshments were served.

Regular meetings are the first Monday of each month at 2 pm in the Mayne Inn.

NEVER FORGET THE SERVICE!

Fire which destroyed the widely-renowned Harbour House is a valuable reminder of the service enjoyed by the islands.

The men who fought the flames were members of the Salt Spring Island Volunteer Fire Department. They relinquished their night's sleep and rushed to the fire without a thought for anything else.

The firemen fought the flames and watched the ancient wooden building vanish in a sheet of flame.

And they safeguarded the new wing of the hotel, joined to the burned out section. The overhanging eaves were charred and the wood railing around the verandah changed its appearance. There was no major damage to the Condor Inn.

The firemen proved themselves on Tuesday morning. They showed that the fire service here is a highly skilled and efficient service and is of incalculable value to the island.

And that's all.

Just be glad they're around!

WHERE ARE THEY ALL?

Surely, the people of the islands have not yet forgotten the fire and the furore and the fury of an election only twelve months ago?

There was never such a campaign among the islands since the days of booze and bags of flour and the vote-watchers.

But now, this year, the islands have never heard of an election! Where is all the spark?

There are four seats falling vacant on the Gulf Islands School Board. Two candidates have announced their plans to run again. There is nobody else in the field yet.

Next Monday is the deadline.

What about trying for a seat on the school board? If you have strong views on education and the islands there is no better platform to bring out that list of criticisms.

Letters To The Editor

CENOTAPH

Editor, Driftwood,
With reference in your column to the date of unveiling of our present Cenotaph, Mrs. Norton is correct, Monday, April 17th, 1922.

I am enclosing a copy of the Memorial Service booklet for display in your store for a week if you think Islanders would be interested, as it is part of quite a collection I have of various events, saved by my Mother, to whose foresight I am much indebted.

However, there was a previous Memorial, made of wood. The tablets with names of all men who served were for many years around the walls of the Mahon Hall - till someone probably no longer cared.

Perhaps this booklet would bring back memories, as well as being of interest to later residents. Mrs. Frank Crofton was a Nursing Sister at the Front, and that is why she was chosen to unveil the monument.

GREASY PIGS

Editor, Driftwood,
My letter is in the form of a plea to all parents of young children.

The other day I had occasion to stop a very young girl from kicking a dog. When asked why she did such a cruel thing, the youngster said, "My mother hates dogs for messing up her garden."

I felt great concern for this girl's future, for here was a sample of unnecessary hatred and indifference being instilled into the receptive mind of a seven year old by a parent.

Just recently this same type of cruelty was inculcated, this time by several prominent citizens of Ganges. I refer to the greasy pig contest held in Ganges.

It is unthinkable for responsible citizens to harass and exploit helpless animals for pleasure and profit. But the greatest harm in this incident was the fact that children were led to believe that annoying and other wise causing stress to an animal is quite proper as long as funds are raised for some project. Pigs in particular suffer real

REMEMBRANCE DAY MOTIF IN ART DISPLAY AT BANK IN GANGES

JOHNNY WATERFALL

HE QUILTS AFTER NINE YEARS

Johnny Waterfall has quit the post office after nine years of driving through the roads of North Salt Spring Island.

Last week the popular rural mail courier went around Rural Route One from Ganges for the last time.

A man with a wide grin and a long memory, he had served the patrons of the route long and well.

Before he could walk out of Ganges Post Office for the last time residents of the Vesuvius Bay area made a quick collection and presented him with a memento of his postal service. Charles Baseley made the presentation.

The post office staff also made a presentation to the mail courier.

Mr. Waterfall left for Calgary after completing his work. He will be back on the island after a short holiday.

Bob Davidson, Churchill Road has switched routes and has taken over RR 1 and Sam Cochran is new courier for RR 2.

Rural mail courier is not a postal employee. Each courier is a contractor and working for himself.

Don't Throw That Away!

Don't throw away those old papers! Check them first.

Mrs. L. R. Oliver, of Woodland Drive, Ganges, produced a clipping from another newspaper reporting on the sale of an old letter from North Vancouver. Sold in London at Sotheby's, the 200-year-old letter fetched almost $400.

There are lots more old letters everywhere, commented Mrs. Oliver, and some of them could be very valuable.

The letter which proved valuable was written by John Wesley, co-founder of the Methodist Church. It was addressed to Miss Molly Stokes, exhorting her to call from door to door, preaching the gospel.

Miss Stokes, of Strand, in London, was a field worker for the new church.

The letter was given to the West Vancouver Memorial Library by Robert Wilson Galbraith in 1949. Mr. Galbraith, of whom little is known, suggested that the letter might be worth $10.

The letter urged the church workers to stay with it.

"Let aside my dear Molly, all evil Shame, all Modesty and go from house to house. Deal faithfully with them all.."

FIRE RAZES HOTEL AT HEAD OF HARBOUR

Renovations to the old wing had included conversion of the former beer parlour to a banquet room.

All that remained after the fire was the new wing. Beer parlour was closed on Tuesday morning for lack of power.

During the height of the blaze firemen were hooked up to all available hydrants and an auxiliary pump also cleaned out Dr. Rob Dixon's swimming pool.

Mr. Herzog was on a hunting trip in the interior this week and on Tuesday morning he had not been reached to inform him of the fire.

The fire will be a blow to visitors from all parts of the North American continent who have made a practice of staying at the quaint old hotel every summer. Many regular visitors here had been coming to the hotel regularly for decades.

With its commanding view of the harbour and picturesque setting, the hotel was a link with the island's past. To many visitors it was a reminder and a reassurance that Ganges was still a rural community.

Cause of the fire has not been ascertained yet. It appeared to have started below the kitchen, according to a fireman. Investigation into the origin of the fire may not pinpoint the cause in view of the complete destruction.

Building was fully insured for replacement. Insurers are Salt Spring Insurance Agencies. Amount of the insurance was not disclosed.

Fred Anderson officiating. Cremation followed. Goodman Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Funeral For Grace Mouat

Miss Grace Lydia Mouat died in Lady Minto Hospital on Saturday, Nov. 11.

Miss Mouat was born on Salt Spring Island and had lived here all her life. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Mouat.

She leaves her father, at home on Charlesworth Road and two brothers, Oliver Mouat, Renton, Wash. and Ivan Mouat, Edmonton.

Funeral services were observed in Ganges United Church on Wednesday afternoon with Rev.

terror in being handled. When this is so obvious why do the "good people" of Ganges turn a deaf ear and blind eye to this cruelty?

For shame! Parents and educators of Ganges should be giving character building lessons instead of contributing to the delinquency of innocent children! Surely teaching respect and kindness for all creation isn't too much to ask!

(Mrs.) Rosemarie McGavin, Counsellor,
Humane Educators of B. C.,
4361 Cedarcrest Ave.,
North Vancouver, B. C.
Nov. 9, 1972.

Down Through The Years

With DRIFTWOOD

12 YEARS AGO...

Const. Harry Bonner of the Ganges RCMP detachment has been transferred to Victoria Subdivision Headquarters. Const. Bonner is believed by many Salt Spring Island residents to be the best police officer to be stationed on the island.

W. S. Anderson, of Beddis Road, has been appointed Magistrate for the Gulf Islands. He assumes the duties formerly undertaken by Magistrate H. S. Noakes. Mr. Noakes has left to be Chief Magistrate in Prince George. Mr. Anderson is a former Detective-Sergeant with the Vancouver City Police.

Walter Luth has relinquished his contract to provide garbage collection service on Salt Spring Island.

On one of the last wide-spread cougar hunts of Salt Spring Island bands of hunters and dogs combed the woods until one of the hunters, home-ward bound, ran over the cougar and killed him when he jumped in front of the car... Advt. Salt Spring Lands.

Now There's Music In The Mall

New addition to Mouat's Mall is the music store. Terry's Musical Instruments is offering all instruments, accessories, printed music and lessons.

Terry Noble is the man behind the name and his wife, Jean Noble will actually run the store.

It's a wedding present in a sense. They have been married only two weeks and now that they are back to live on the island, both are getting back to work. While Jean sells music and musical instruments, Terry is building houses for other people before finally getting around to building a house for himself.

He is employed by Eddie Jang. The couple come from Richmond, where Terry was with a large paper company and his wife operated a small fabrics store.

The new store is the fifth to open in the basement mall of Mouat's Trading.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble are living on Booth Road in a cottage owned by Terry's father, Jack Noble.

10 YEARS AGO...

Three veteran school trustees representing a collective 21 years of service have resigned or declined to stand for re-election to the Gulf Islands School Board. Mrs. Hilda Prior, Pender Island and Chairman G. S. Humphreys will not stand for re-election, and A.D. Dane has resigned, although he had one more year to serve.

Winners of the fifth round in Group B, IODE Bridge are Mrs. A. E. Roddis, and Miss D. Anderson; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Sharland, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morris, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Peiler, T. McIntyre and L. Musgrove, Mrs. R. J. Young and Mrs. F. Agnew, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Emerslund, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Shove.

Salt Spring Island Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion has acquired poppy seeds from the First War battle grounds. Harry Loosmore prompted the branch to write to the Burgomaster at Mons, in Belgium. The Belgian official was happy to comply and the seeds are on their way.

FIVE YEARS AGO...

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Byron will mark their 50th wedding anniversary on Wednesday, Nov 22. They were married in Aldershot and came to Canada after the First World War. They came to Salt Spring Island, with their five sons, in 1934.

George Pearson, of Pender Island, is getting his Care Tree ready for the Christmas season. For the past eight years Mr. Pearson has lighted up a bulb on the tree, overlooking the water of Navy Channel, for every donation he receives for CARE.

EMERALD ENCHANTMENT

Deep, deep, deep
Into the heart of an emerald
I gaze...and gaze...until Languorously I am swimming
Through that translucent green,
The water cool on my brown
sun-warmed flesh,
My black hair floating free;
Knowing that in a moment I shall run
Across the sand to pluck
A scarlet flower for my midnight hair,
And in the sun's warm gold I'll lie
Beside the water green.

'Goody' - Salt Spring Islander With The Big Grin

BY LILLIAN HORSDAL

Donald Goodman needs no introduction to most of us on Salt Spring. When we finally shuffle off this earth it will, in all probability, be he who will make it easier for our families. Other times, he is the fellow with the big grin.

Having had experience with many funeral undertakers while I was doing social work I know how fortunate we are to have one who does not demand a new Lincoln each year. For this we should all be thankful. "Goody" came to Salt Spring in 1922 as one of Mr. Bullock's boys.

There is a popular legend that all Mr. Bullock's boys came from Dr. Barnardo's Homes in England. This is not so. In truth none of them came from that institution. They were mostly boys from the Protestant orphanage in Victoria.

Mr. Goodman was born in Saskatchewan. He was taken by his parents to England before the First World War. His mother died there.

When it was possible to return to Canada Mr. Goodman, Senior, brought his children back and placed them in the framed letter requesting Mr. Bullock not to drive his horse-orphanage on Hillside. It was no easier then than it is now to find someone satisfactory to care properly for children. It was from that orphanage that Goody came to Salt Spring Island.

Mr. Bullock is the elderly, portly and bearded gentleman with the top hat sitting in his Model T in the picture. He was one of the staunch Conservatives of the island. He had his own methods of doing everything.

True, he taught his boys much, but in teaching he also managed to get excellent help at low cost. For the first two years a boy would be a house-boy. He would then graduate to cook for the next two years. They were taught to cook well since their employer was a connoisseur and demanded perfection for the very formal dinners he gave.

The Bullock car had all sorts of new fangled contraptions on it including seven lights in front. The owner was no dragster. On one occasion he shouted at Goody, "You fool! I'll take the wheel! You're driving 22 miles an hour in the snow."

Bullock had lots of respect for snow. In order to prevent the front wheels from skidding he had two sets of chains put on the wheels.

The car was an island novelty. Over the fireplace in the living room of his house was a less carriage on exhibition days because it frightened the animals.

The old gentleman was called Daddy Bullock in token of his age.

Mr. Goodman recalls that he bought everything wholesale and, because of his great love of rich foods he would break out periodically in an itchy rash. Sulphur ointment helped to ease it, so he bought cases of five pound tins and this he would have spread liberally wherever the rash appeared.

During a bath much of the ointment would stain the tub, so one day, he decided to have it repainted.

The chap who contracted to take care of the tub said he'd have to paint it with enamel, let it dry and apply other coats.

Hence, he disconnected it and took it home to paint it once and let it dry for three weeks.

Well, it didn't completely dry and the first time Mr. Bullock lowered his heavy and copious body into his bath the paint blisters burst and Mr. Bullock was nicely enamelled.

The Bullock establishment had one of the first indoor toilets on Salt Spring Island, but it brought its own trouble. In order to prevent the pipes from freezing he had to have sawdust insulation, which the ants soon found possible to carry away. This they did by climbing a pole a good fifty or sixty feet from the new addition, crawling along the electric wire, picking up a piece of sawdust and making the long trek back to their ant hill again.

Every room had its own fire place which entailed hauling great quantities of wood.

Mr. Bullock had a Japanese gardener to whom he paid an extra $2.50 to have his boys taught to swim. The teacher

A GASTRONOMIC TOUR OF FRANCE

From the journal of Ione V. Guthrie
With illustrations by Caroline Hamilton

Angouleme - Blois

We decided at Longon to bypass the rest of the Bordeaux region, regretfully giving up the chance to drink the marvelous Medoc wines on their own territory, but determined to avoid any more huge cities, such as Bordeaux, in favor of back country roads and more countryside.

So from Longon we made for Perigueux through Aquitaine, which Caroline tells me used to belong to England, and indeed looks very English, with beautiful forests and agricultural land. Considering the attractiveness of the region, it seems a pity the English didn't make a trade, keeping sunny Aquitaine, and giving foggy Britain to the French.

Perigueux is in the Dordogne, the centre of the truffle industry, and close to the foie gras region.

Truffles, it says here, are Stygian strawberries, born in a symbiotic relationship with oak trees growing on limestone. Both pigs and dogs are used to help find these underground treasures, but dogs are preferred, since they dig them up but don't eat them, whereas you have to keep a sharp eye on your pig, which will eat the lot if you don't watch him.

We had our snack lunch in Perigueux, and I bought one truffle for a friend, and a bottle of walnut oil for me. The latter is supposed to give a very special flavour to French dressing, and is very difficult to buy anywhere else but here. We enjoyed the town and its cathedral, and felt we had hardly done it justice with such a short visit.

The end of our drive brought us to Angouleme, an ancient city magnificently sited on a high bluff overlooking miles of rolling countryside. We shot the works on a three-star hotel which is even more imposing than Perpignan, and are loving every moment of it.

Difficult To Mislaid

We spent the rest of the afternoon looking for the Cathedral. It seems difficult to mislay a Cathedral when it always occupies the most prominent position in any town, but we did. In the process of looking, we discovered the most fantastic formal gardens at the town hall laid out in patterns of color to form the crest of the city. The only thing remotely like it that I have seen is the famous floral clock of Edinburgh. The cathedral finally turned up on the ramparts, about two miles from where we had started looking; pure Romanesque, and well worth finding.

A superb dinner finished off the day: pate de foie gras with truffles, delivered to the table in hushed whispers; sweetbreads with mushroom sauce; Caroline had steak with Bearnaise sauce, mayonnaise beaten up with butter and tarragon; peas and beans just right; cheese, including the famous Roquefort, and peaches.

Since we are still close to Bordeaux, we had a chateau-bottled red, young but good; and since we are also close to Cognac, we had Remy Martell with our coffee. Our chatty bartender was wildly generous in his pouring, and altogether we had no complaints about Angouleme.

Next day we went to Mass at Angouleme, in that same Cathedral. As the service is now in the vernacular, French, it was easy to see how very similar it is to the Anglican Eucharist; a hopeful thought for the ecumenicals!

We left immediately afterwards for Poitiers and Saumur. A good day's driving across what must be the breadbasket of France, miles and miles of gently rolling country with the harvesting of grain in full swing. Lunch stop in Poitiers, and a quick visit to two churches.

Modern Stained Glass

Caroline is indefatigable, but this time I insisted on going by car. We were rewarded by a splendid old parish church in which every inch of the walls, columns and ceiling was painted in stripes and swirls and very cheerful. It was also the first old church in which we had seen some really outstanding modern stained glass, startlingly effective.

As we drove steadily north we came down to the banks of the Loire, and turned down river. We were fascinated by a limestone escarpment, into which were built miles of houses. They had prim gray exteriors with shutters and white curtains at the windows and their back ends were cut out of the living rock.

Saumur is a handsome town, with its own chateau, a foretaste of the marvellous edifices we hope to see up river tomorrow. We had a good dinner of new tastes, Caroline trying out yet another pate called rilletes, of pounded pork; I, hors d'oeuvres including several interesting sausages; both of us had quenelles de brochet, last tried in Beaune, which were spectacularly successful.

The ingredients again: finely ground white fish mixed into chou paste, cooked like dumplings in stock, and covered with a cheesy tomato sauce. I had the darkest and richest coq au vin imaginable, and Caroline a beautifully cooked scallop of veal in a cream and mushroom sauce. We tried a Saumur white wine (still), but I thought it rather thin and vinegary compared with our recent excellent Bordeaux.

This morning was gray and overcast as we set out for a day of 'shatter' chasing. Before long the rain came down in buckets, the first since we left the Pyrenees, and we were in real trouble with our balky windshield wipers. We had to drive with both windows wide open, rain blowing in, so that one or other of us could reach out and poke the wipers into action when they gave up altogether.

Luckily we had lots of stops to look at chateaux, the first at Usse, a strange fairy-story building with masses of steep, pixie-capped turrets, which Caroline drew from the car. We had brief glimpses of Chinon and Azay-le-Rideau, but were disinclined to get out of the car as neither of us has a raincoat.

At last, as driving became increasingly dangerous and exasperating, we found a Renault garage just before lunch, and mercifully the mechanic was able to fix up a temporary arrangement which sidetracked the wiper troubles. The minute he had finished, it stopped raining.

Into Tours For Lunch

We happily dashed into Tours for lunch, both of us wet and cold. My troubles came to an end with a steaming bowl of gratineed onion soup. I managed to prevent Caroline from setting out on an expedition round the churches of Tours, which is a very big city indeed; and with the sun shining again, we were soon bowling along to Chenonceaux.

This is obviously one of the more popular tourist spots, with hundreds of cars lining the road and overflowing the parking lot. Not hard to see why. One walks in along an immense, raised avenue of poplars, with forests below on each side. And emerges into huge formal gardens with clipped trees and riotous beds of pink petunias all over the green lawns.

The chateau itself, quite small compared with Chambord for instance, actually straddles the river Cher, on a series of arches. Here were the glorious furnishings, the richly canopied beds, the tapestries, the carved and painted ceilings, that we found so lacking in the papal palace at Avignon.

The most attractive room was a tremendously long gallery, with windows all down both sides and huge fireplaces at each end, which overhung the river, and gave lovely views of the gardens and forests up and down stream.

One room was called the bedroom of five queens; of whom one was Mary Queen of Scots. It was a sombre thought to compare with the magnificence, and possible happiness, of these surroundings with the grim conditions to which she was eventually reduced in England by Queen Elizabeth. A chancey time to be alive, indeed.

After Chenonceaux we did not feel inclined to do any more 'shattering' this day, but contented ourselves by driving back to the Loire through fine forests, crossing the river at Amboise, where we had a fleeting glimpse of that chateau, and driving along a spectacular stretch of the river bank to Blois.

Here we decided to call it a day; and found a small hotel with our first real, full-length bathtub of the whole trip. There was just time for a quick walk up to the chateau here, and a drink on the ramparts of the old city. The chateau is interesting in various ways, including some delightfully bawdy stone figures on the outer face of one wing, which suggest that the ancient French sometimes suffered from the same complaint which is so distressing to modern tourists, including me.

Doris Anderson, the Salt Spring Island world traveller, is once again going to show some of her excellent pictures 'taken along the European and Overseas ways', and this time to an audience that hasn't been able to see the pictures before, at Nan's Coffee Bar on Wednesday, Nov. 29 at 7:30 pm.

Complete Quail
Dinner at the hotel was good, and more than adequate. Rather to Caroline's disgust I chose quail, which arrived at table intact, except for the feathers, and very tasty too. We both had smoked salmon from the Loire. These are supposed to be the best of the Atlantic type and our sample was extremely good. Once more we managed to avoid a fizzy wine, rather prevalent in the Loire district, and had a still Vouvray, white, which was first class.
During the past couple of days we have become increasingly aware that we are not the only foreigners in France. Angouleme had an American bar, where a Martini would have been gin and dry vermouth, instead of the usual sweet, red vermouth. Saumur had a double-barrelled menu in French and English; boiled eggs appeared to cost a dollar, so we saw no reason to try them. It is rather sad to be back in the tourist traps of the north; we find we both tend to whisper now, in case anyone should understand us!

This time it is for the people in Fulford and later on, in January, Miss Anderson will be showing to interested Ganges people in two separate showings the time and place to be mentioned nearer the dates. There are many pictures, and doing it this way, says Doris, she will be able to show twice as many pictures without a repetition. A silver collection will take care of the admission fees. This goes to the Mendies Fund for Nepal.
As this is a holiday weekend, the news to date (Monday) is still in the making and heaven-knows what the Islanders will come up with 'after the ball is over', after the money's spent, many a heart will be aching, wondering where it went. Sorry, but someone was playing that old tune of the old song and the words just scrambled off the keys... I can just see our Island poets shaking their heads.

I bought a copy of the London Times in Tours, the first English language paper we had seen the whole way round France. Needn't have bothered really. Ulster and Viet Nam are still upheaved, and the Dow-Jones Industrial average just about where it was when we left home.

Grandpa J. H. Lee celebrated his 85th birthday on Sunday, Nov. 12, and to help him celebrate, Ron and Evelyn Lee, Cliff and Gladys Lee, Elizabeth Lee and Neil McDonald went to Victoria to take good wishes and congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Casperson from 100 Mile House, spent the holiday weekend with Mrs. Casperson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John French. They have snow where they came from, said Jayney, - a good four inches. Count your blessings, dear Island people. WE have sunshine, so far! I can just hear our ancestors screaming, "Touch wood! touch wood!" That, it seemed, always counteracted any diverse effect from boasting (Like throwing spilled salt over your left shoulder).

Strangers came the other day to ask permission to "pick a few apples that hadn't been sprayed" and they took a bag full back with them. In the gentleman's pocket was a copy of DRIFTWOOD, and he pulled it out. "This is a good little paper," - I am going to subscribe to it, he said. "We are hoping to live on Salt Spring Island some day". I hope they do; they were very nice people. And I hope they enjoyed their un-sprayed apples!

relied on a rope to give his pupils confidence and in three half hour sessions they could swim.

Mr. Goodman laughed as he recalled the times they would swim in the nude and be caught by peeping females. This necessitated having the lookout row a boat out with their swimming suits. They would put their suits on under water behind the boat and were able to emerge later as if nothing untoward had happened.

During Mr. Goodman's first two years with Mr. Bullock, the connoisseur came into the kitchen with a bottle of port to be added to the soup.

He had a very portly figure, which prevented his getting too close to the stove. However, he uncorked the bottle and poured some into the pot then, placing the bottle carefully behind him he leaved forward to taste the stew. The young man who was serving as cook reached for the bottle and drank a good three fingers of the wine. He was just replacing it when Mr. Bullock turned around and caught him. Quickly he swallowed what he'd taken from the bottle and dashed over to the sink putting on a good show of spluttering and coughing. It worked; Mr. Bullock concluded he'd learned his lesson and left the kitchen grinning.

After leaving Mr. Bullock's service in 1926, Mr. Goodman did odd jobs for a time. He went on the CPR ship Island Princess which was later renamed the Cy Peck. This job only lasted 29 days, because he laughed when the engineer made a disparaging remark about the chief steward.

When the chief steward said some girl had smiled at him the engineer said, "She must have been blind." Because of his audible snicker, Mr. Goodman lost his job.

His next venture was to work at harvest on the prairies. It was so cold that the young swain at dances, accustomed to having swigs outdoors, found that the whisky had frozen. He came back to Salt Spring knowing just how desperately cold it could be at 30 below zero with a wind blowing.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodman have been active members of the NDP party since its inception, and of the CCF before that.

At that time if you were too outspoken about favoring the CCF you could lose your job.

When the Conservatives took over from the Liberals all the party members holding jobs were fired. At one time the Conservatives built a wharf at Ganges that the Liberals left to disintegrate when they came to power.

Mr. Goodman worked again for the Trading Company until 1930, when he went north to grub stake but the depression hit. Here on the island you could trade work for produce so no one starved, but there was no money about.

Robin Justice owned a garage where the butcher shop now stands and these two --owner and mechanic--shared profits. If a job cost $2 they each had one.

Goody had taken a mechanic's course but he soon found he could not lie under a car without having stomach trouble.

In 1934 when he and Isabel were married they worked for Fred Abbott, owner of all Long Harbour. He had nine miles of waterfront included in the 750 acres he later sold to Anita Baldwin for $14,000. Before the land was logged Mr. Goodman remembers walks along the top of the ridge for as far as two miles where your feet would sink into moss six inches deep. The Indians were able to catch their game easily in those earlier days.

In 1944 the couple left the Baldwin estate and he went back to the Trading Company until 1947.

Mr. Goodman then took over the garage opposite the Trading Company, which he later sold to Alec McManus.

On the first day of 1955 he went into his present business as undertaker. They bought their home in Ganges which was until that time the Formby House boarding school.

One Formby student, after leaving on holidays from the boarding school, is reputed to have been found suffering from malnutrition.

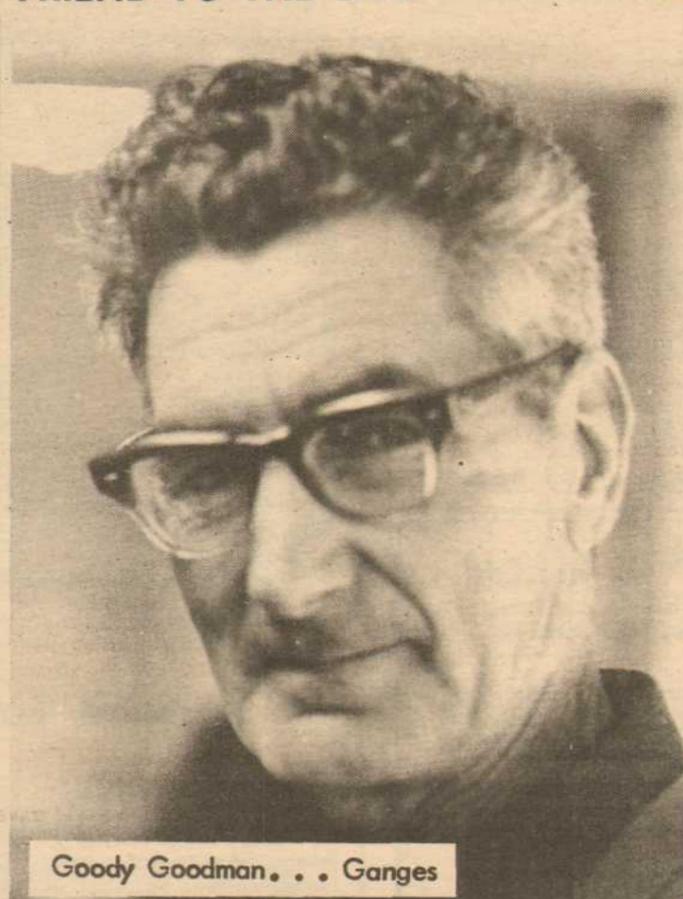

In those days Mouat Bros. kept three caskets for the convenience of customers. When a death occurred, Mouats would take care of the funeral. They would pay someone to dig a grave, the family would give the minister something and that took care of the funeral. But funerals were becoming popular. When the death rate reached 18 in one year, it overtaxed the service that Mouat Bros. offered.

At that time Haywards in Victoria, supplied Mouat's, but because of a misunderstanding they advertised for a representative on Salt Spring. Mr. Goodman took over the service and for ten years he was their agent. When old Mr. Hayward died the business went into the hands of a trust company.

Mr. Goodman shortly afterwards went into business for himself. He and his wife planned the house, which was stripped and rebuilt to suit the purpose. That was in 1962.

Salt Spring has changed greatly since Goody first arrived here. He recalls the good old days as mighty hard ones. There was a good deal of class distinction then. Now, it is the difference between the "haves" and the "have-nots." Earlier, the landed gentry did not speak to the trades people.

Mr. Goodman drove the ambulance and the fire truck while he worked at the service station. He was a member of the volunteer fire brigade for many years.

Goody Goodman. . . Ganges

When Mouat's Store had a fire it had burned for two hours before it was extinguished. Because of lack of air, it was kept confined and not too much damage was done.

Mr. Goodman decided right then if he were going to be a fireman he'd have to learn more about it all.

Arthur Elliot was the first person to take a constructive interest in fire prevention. A man named Charlie Moore donated an old 1937 Buick which Mr. Elliot, with much ingenuity, made over into a fire truck carrying 60 gallons of water.

Later, Mr. Goodman became fire chief and eventually better equipment was provided. However, the fire brigade could not function effectively without more financial support and the fire department was dissolved.

During this period the golf club burned down and it was then that the residents realized the necessity for a permanent fire department. Actually it costs less this way with taxes paying for the service.

Reports of fires are rarely fair to firemen, complains Goody. Fire damage, reckoned in dollars, does not take into account the hours and hours spent by firemen saving as much as they can of a building. Once, Mr. Goodman recalls, they were roaring along the

and the bus driver could see sky between the road and the wheels.

In discussing Salt Spring roads Mr. Goodman remembers when all roads were gravel and it required the best part of half a day to drive from Ganges to Fulford and back again. A Chinese gardener who sold vegetables was asked how fast he drove. "Oh I don't know," he replied. "Fulford Harbour-Ganges Harbour one hour." Now we do it in less than half that time.

"I'm glad I attended your lecture on insomnia, Doctor."
"Did you find it interesting?" "No, But it cured my insomnia!"

More on lectures: an attractive nurse attended a series of lectures on dealing with psychiatric patients. On the last day, one of the doctors noticed the nurse being pawed by the man sitting next to her. "Is he bothering you?" the gallant doctor asked the nurse. "Why should I be bothered?" she answered. "It's his problem."

Service To Others Is Message

How many students would spend their memorial holiday on Monday in the service of others, asked Lt.-Col. Paul Layard when he addressed students of Gulf Islands Secondary School on Friday afternoon.

Col. Layard was the guest speaker during the school's Memorial ceremonies.

He recalled that the Canadians who died in recent wars lost their lives to safeguard their homes and their homeland. Would students take the holiday and offer nothing in return, he asked, or would they use the holiday to help someone else in the community?

Col. Layard was introduced by Heather Fraser.

Principal Bob McWhirter introduced the program and the bandmaster, Maj. John Dought. The school's band offered a sel-lection of older and modern music in the service of a public performance.

There were more than 300 students taking part in the ceremony.

FAMILY TRAVELS FAR

Musical family from South Pender Island has split up to take two long voyages.

Following the soiree musicale at Waterlea, Douglas Harker with wife Betty, took his brother Russell and Cicely Elgie Harker on a tour of western scenery.

From Otter Bay they travelled to Squamish, Pemberton, Lillooet, Clinton, up the North Thompson to Jasper, thence to Lake Louise and home through Rogers Pass.

The trio is now back in business at the old music stand, with daily sessions at Waterlea, where a lucky listener might hear Bach, Beethoven, Boyce, Pugnani and a happy waltz by Hummel. For ten years the Russell Harkers were members of the Johannesburg Symphony. Later, the Harkers embark on the Acadian, via Panama Canal for London, leaving Southampton for Cape Town, humming "I'll be Home for Christmas."

Meanwhile Douglas and Betty take off on a Yugoslavian freighter with six other smarties who booked a year ahead. Dubrovnik will be the jumping-off place for further adventure.

REMEMBRANCE DAY MARKED BY STUDENTS AT GALIANO

Remembrance Day on Galiano was celebrated at the School with an appropriate program on Friday afternoon.

Principal Basil Benger and junior room teacher, Miss Heather Anderson, gathered the children in the senior room, and heard a report by Jim Ripley, on the part played by the armed forces in war and peace-keeping.

Following the two-minute silence, Mrs. M. Backlund addressed the children on "Service to others", telling of the many other ways people serve others each and every day.

On Saturday morning, the Church of St. Margaret of Scotland was filled for the traditional Remembrance Day Service. Rev. O. L. Foster officiated, and Mrs. Foster played the organ, and led the singing.

LAST RITES FOR MRS. BECKY LUMLEY

BY BEA HAMILTON

It is as if a little bit of Salt Spring Island passes into history when an old timer dies, and last week, on November 9, a well-loved Islander, Rebecca Marie Lumley whose people came with the days of the first Hawaiians who emigrated here before the 1870's, passed away in Lady Minto Hospital.

Becky, as she was known to her family and friends, lived in the A. O. Lacy original log house on Isabella Point road. Her people, the John Carpenters came about 1898, and Becky was a cheerful, lovely girl and was liked by all.

She was always a part of community activities as a girl and as a married woman, she continued her interest in island affairs.

She was one of the favorites in the Hospital as Nurse's Aid for many years, and was also known in the former Dr. Francis's Nursing Home.

The Girl Guide movement knew her well and many a guide camped on the Lumley property on Churchill Road. Becky is the sort of person who will be missed by all who knew her.

Her mother was a mid-wife in the early days and in fact, brought the writer into the world.

Besides her husband, Ed, she leaves three daughters, Mrs. W. S. (Rita) White, in Richmond; Mrs. R. J. (Gwen) Havens, in McKenzie, B. C.; and Mrs. R. G. (Jackie) Hembruff, in Nanaimo; nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild;

Fernwood

BY JESSIE SAYER

Mrs. Helen Hetherington, of North Vancouver, came to spend some pleasant days with her two sisters, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. E. Adams.

On November 8, we enjoyed lovely red raspberries, enough for two, at sunny Fernwood.

In a New Zealand paper sent in June we note the food prices are something to be envied. Prime ribs, 43¢ per lb.; Canadian canned salmon, 41¢ for 7-1/2 ozs; 6 lb. sugar, 52¢; 4 cents per pint; butter, 30¢ per lb. Everyone cooks with butter there.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Guest, with daughter, Valerie and a friend, of Mission, spent a pleasant weekend with Mr. and Mrs. W. Petapiece.

two brothers, Wilf Carpenter, Boise, Idaho, and Sam Larden, in Steveston.

There are indeed many who grew to love and enjoy Becky's cheerful personality, and she will remain in memory for many years. Our sympathy goes out to her husband Eddy, in Ganges, and to her family.

Last rites were observed on Monday, Nov. 13, in Ganges

United Church, with Mr. Fred Sibley officiating. Cremation followed. Goodman Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

There were about 150 mourners at the funeral and the minister concluded the service outside the flower-strewn church.

Pall-bearers were J. C. Albhouse, Vic Sampson, Harold Bridgen, Cliff Burnipp, Laurie Mouat and Alf Nicholls.

Community Centre Is In Operation

BY NEIGHBOUR

Open House for the Community Centre group at Ganges United Church Hall was a most cheerful and friendly occasion so we are extending an invitation to all ladies of the community to come along and join us on Friday, Nov. 17 at 2 pm.

There will be a "Chat and Sew" session (bring your own sewing, etc) or if your hobby is cooking we have just the thing for you.

During the afternoon there will be a demonstration that is just in time for the festive season, the art of icing and decorating Christmas cakes.

The welcome mat is out, come along and bring a friend.

GALIANO

BY MARY BACKLUND

Everyone we know seems to have colds or flu, these days. They are either just getting it, or in the middle, or must get it over it. Any way you look at it, it is quite miserable. I'm in the middle, so news this week is scanty.

Visitors to Peaceful Valley lately have been RCMP Sgt. George Lewis with wife, from Ganges, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bamford, of Vancouver and Dave Japp, from Cloverdale.

On Friday night, there was a car crash, with one car being demolished, and the other little damage. Edmund Crocker was attempting to pass a car driven by Donald Sparrow, Ladner, on the Valley road. The two cars were in collision. The Sparrow car went out of control. It hit the ditch, then a culvert, before leaping off the road to over turn on the other side of the culvert. No one was badly hurt. Passengers in the Sparrow car, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Wilson, were injured, but did not require hospitalization. RCMP is investigating.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neale, of Vancouver, spent the week end at their cottage at Montague Harbour.

Mr. and Mrs. George George son, of Sidney, came to spend a few days for the anniversary of their son and daughter-in-law the Georgie Georgesons, Jr.

Important... please remember the meeting on Saturday night in the Galiano Hall, Saturday, Nov. 18, at 8 p.m. to hear the presentation of the Galiano Island Planning Area Community Plan.

George Atamanenko, Capital Regional District planner, will be in attendance, as will be Jim Campbell, Regional Director for the Outer Islands.

It is hoped for a big crowd to hear this plan, which is the result of hundreds of hours of work by dedicated people to work out a plan for the island.

REAL ESTATE

NORTH PENDER IS.

This nice two bedroom home on Bedwell Harbour Rd. on over 1 ac. is priced to sell at $15,900. 2 blocks to shopping 3 min. to pebble beach. No better value.

2.5 acres close to ferry and overlooking Swanson Channel. Fairly level well-treed lot priced at $11,900.

Beautiful Waterfront Lot Home partly built, $18,500. on Shady nicely treed lane situated on S.W. slope with pleasant view over bay.

8.75 ac. splendid view prop. in Port Washington with two newly built homes, one producing revenue. Owner wishes to lease back larger home on a permanent basis. Several other perfect natural building sites. Terrific investment.

Builder Starting Local builder constructing two homes in lovely residential area on level lots with some view. Minutes to beaches and shopping. S.W. slope provides plenty of sunshine.

Small Farm This 11.75 ac. of excellent soil situated in beginning of valley is a natural farm site. Plenty of additional buildings to support this enterprise plus a modern 3 bed. home, 2 acres zoned commercial. See this and enjoy its pleasant location in Port Washington. Good value at $69,500.

GALIANO ISLAND

5 lovely acres with view overlooking Active Pass. See this now. These prop. are not plentiful.

SALT SPRING ISLAND

Excellent view lots overlooking Ganges Harbour, Active Pass, lower Gulf Islands with Mount Baker in background. These must be seen to be appreciated and selling at $7000 up. Easy terms.

SATURNA ISLAND

This splendid view prop. is rare indeed. High view looking south to San Juan Islands and northerly towards upper Gulf Islands. Plenty of wild life and selling at less than $900 per acre.

played the slow movement from Bach's double concerto and a sonata by William Boyce, 1700.

Douglas Harker played the second movement from Beethoven's Pathetique Sonata. Violist Russell, played Pappini's Romance and La Basque, a dance by Marin Marais, 1600.

Saxophonist Jack McAndrew did Schubert's much-loved Serenade and Handel's Largo and Cicely played Wieniawski's Legende.

Lasca, the story of a Texas cowboy and a stampee, was recited by Olive Auchterlonie and Michael Gillespie played the guitar.

The surprise of the evening was Santa Barbara's lyric tenor, Dario Vanni, who enchanted all, with Tcselli's Serenade and
